

ABITO

(Associazione Società San Vincenzo de' Paoli – Consiglio Centrale di Torino)

Abito uses the exchange of used clothes as a tool to promote social inclusion and to activate restitution processes in the territory with a view to social, environmental and economic sustainability. The aim of the project is to combat the poverty and social exclusion of citizens living in fragile conditions, guaranteeing everyone the right to adequate and dignified clothing.

The idea was born from the need to reorganize the clothing distribution service to people in need managed by the San Vincenzo de' Paoli association of Turin, overcoming the dynamic assistance and stimulating participatory actions that involve the entire community. The project, realized in the Porta Palazzo district, foresees the birth of the “Abito Social Shop”, an innovative multifunctional space for the collection, the tailoring transformation and the free distribution of used clothes and regenerated clothes. In a logic of generative welfare based on restitution, in addition to providing basic necessities such as clothes, Abito encourages moments of relationship, listening and accompaniment of the person, giving life to a place that wants to be a point of reference for the social life of the inhabitants and users of the neighborhood. Beneficiaries who get their clothes for free can, for example, offer services to the community in terms of time and skills within the project or for the neighborhood.

The generated social impact is accompanied by a positive impact in environmental terms, as it proposes a model of “sustainable and conscious” dressing, which through reuse reduces the share of clothes that would become waste and stimulates the development of a short chain of clothing. 'dress. In line with the charitable aims of the association, the project is supported by the contribution of the volunteers and by all the citizens who, by donating and purchasing clothes, can support the social objectives of the project.

BIAGIO

(Rete italiana di Cultura popolare)

Biagio arises as a project addressed to community activation. It goes beyond the idea of concierge service thanks to Colibri's tools, analyzing needs and experiences over territories, managing services and comparing cultural courses to current changes. The relationship heritage, proficiencies and solidarity networks will be shown through a cultural innovation tool, formerly experimented, named "Portale dei saperi" (Knowledge portal), a virtual platform set up to highlight and interface mapped resources and needs deriving by proximity communities.

Biagio starts from the realization that any geographic area can offer available individuals, skilled and moved to action by a true intention to be helpful to their own community. A lot of people, because of several reasons (age, social and psycho-physical conditions, active life and complicated work situation, single-family entity) need to have available a social environmental net able to solve daily problems. The purpose consists to answer those needs relating to the second one persons by the help of the first ones. Therefore the priority target is represented by people at risk of social exclusion (refugees, unemployed, out of work). Biagis, as resident people, like artisans and shop keepers, are the secondary target, living within the area of focused quarters (Quadrilatero Romano, Porta Doranea, Quartieri military and Porta Palazzo/Valdocco).

Biagio is also a non-conventional physical area, a virtual space and an on-the-road acting. Every knowledge keeper - Biagis - will be identified, trained and coordinated thanks to the project's partners Nessuno è straniero and Ufficio Pastorale Migranti. Services will depend from available expertise: little moves, dog-sitting, home improvements (do-it-by yourself), shopping carried at home, handmade workshops, keys and parcels safekeeping, together with needs becoming from children, families and students. Moreover the project envisages some patterns oriented to promote shops and commercial activities of the area with the aim to renew the circular economy in the quarter.

C.A.R.O.T.A.

(Cooperativa Patchanka)

Imagine a park, huge, at the border between the industrial suburbs of the city and the landscape around with community gardens managed by citizens. A House, a space open to everyone, trying for years to be a landmark for the neighborhood, to give answers, help, a presence, a smile. Imagine a restaurant, comfortable, with red chairs and a garden view. Prices are low, food is good, cooked with the left-overs of the local markets, solving the problem of the surplus to the merchants. As always in a restaurant behind each client there is a history we ignore. Many of them probably work in the area, some have problems of unemployment, others are university students, some may fight the difficulty of feel part of a community.

For some of them every day the first problem to face is to find food. Food. Food is the main ingredient of the CAROTA recipe. Because from need it can turn into potential. Food bring people together. Grown together in gardens, regained from the market, shared it in a cozy space, where everybody can feel as part of a whole. Where people that can pay for their lunch, seat nearby those one that can't, and it's impossible to recognize which one is who. Turn food need into opportunity to create a bond with people, and face than other problems through a full block of services granted by the project, as financial education, social service, work inclusion, possibility to self-grow food in a common garden. Nowadays poverty is a complex problems. CAROTA is a modern idea of food service, keeping together the social and commercial aspects, creating a network of territory services for a common response to new poverty.

(ACLI Provinciali di Torino)

Fattore Comunità - a project of ACLI Provinciali, coop., Educazione Progetto, coop., Solidarietà, coop., La Bottega e Unione Sportiva Acli - realizes an experimental model of community welfare based on the realization of integrated places where families can receive services, support each other and delegate care tasks in order to regain time / energy to assume a role of social and cultural actor of the territory.

G-LOCAL FACTORY

(Liberitutti s.c.s.)

G-Local Factory is structured as a place where it is possible to enhance professional talents, implement entrepreneurial skills and optimize resources by sharing spaces, networks and skills.

The main target are the "losers" of the traditional economic cycle: those with potential in terms of professionalism and micro entrepreneurship, who share the difficulty of entering the traditional market. The challenge facing the project is therefore to provide them with the tools and organizational support necessary for a new entry into the labor market, focusing on the theme of the recovery of crafts, creativity and social entrepreneurship, exploring new opportunities commercial and rediscovering forgotten ones. The beneficiaries' capacity path sets the foundations for future professional autonomy, while the sharing of work spaces calls for the creation of a network of local and national professionals that opens the door to new opportunities.

The model, unpublished in Turin, is innovative and involves a continuous interaction between profit and non-profit, establishing an equal relationship that gives shape to a networked company. The project takes the form of an operational unit in the area between Barriera di Milano and Aurora: territories that have many of the characteristics of the impoverishment of the Turin suburbs while maintaining the potential to build community well-being, activating processes of innovation and resource enhancement locals. In this area there is the experience of Liberitutti s.c.s., responsible for the experimentation of the project, which for 20 years has been working within the social, cultural and economic promotion of territories in strong crisis.

LOVING THE ALIEN

(Altra Mente s.c.s.)

Loving the Alien is a project of urban and cultural regeneration developed through social and professional inclusion.

His name matches together the vocations of the two main partners: the attention to people with mental disease promoted by Altra Mente (a social cooperative) and the interest in Modern Fantastic Imagination developed by Mufant - Fantasy and Science Fiction Museum of Turin. Altra Mente and Mufant together share a challenge in the name of a common denominator: love for the Alien, the Elsewhere, the Deviant.

Starting from the work of urban regeneration which Mufant founders have been launching three years ago in the north suburb of Turin (Borgo Vittoria District), creating there (in a disused school) a museum, the project "Loving the Alien" aims to realize a thematic Park - made of fifteen big artistic installation (inspired by sci.fi) - in the vast public garden adjacent to the museum. The installations of the "Fantastic Park" will be built in two labs - a scenography lab and a costumes lab -, which will employ 8 people underemployed: 4 people with mental disease, 2 educators, a costume designer, an art director. Both labs are designed also as "profit enterprises", this mean that they will create products - costumes for cosplayers and props for collectors - addressed to the related markets.

The area of the Park will be the place of an annual festival, "Loving the Alien", focused on the theme of "not ordinary identities" seen through the lens of science fiction and fantasy, and it will host others periodicals events. All the events will be co designed with residents of the district. Sustainability of the events will be also based on incomes of activities for visitors and tourists.

NON DI SOLO PANE (Panacea Social Farm)

“Non di solo pane” (Not by bread alone) is a social business project aiming to develop work, citizenship and welfare.

It is fostered by Panacea Social Farm, a young cooperative producing bread and baked products and based on a local and sustainable production chain. The project is carried out in cooperation with CCM (Comitato di Collaborazione Medica), an association working on health promotion for vulnerable people.

Not by bread alone is born and developed in the area of “Laboratori di Barriera di Via Baltea”, a community hub run by the cooperative Sumisura. This area belongs to the neighbourhood with the highest number of young people and migrants in the city, which gives sense for locating the project there, and to be based in a hub helps creating intersections and developing roots. Sumisura supports the project in terms of business development and designing and carrying out social and cultural activities.

Not by bread alone focusses on creating training and job opportunities for vulnerable people (mostly migrants and refugees) sustained by the development of two new business branches (pastry and gluten-free products). A group of 15 vulnerable people will be trained during the project duration: 2 of them will become the pastry and gluten-free referent person; the others will be supported toward other working opportunities or self entrepreneurship. The new pastry and gluten-free products will be designed to respond to the growing demand of high quality ingredients and healthy food, with a special focus on food intolerance. The project will set up and experiment a model aiming to sustain it through the business development once the funds will be over.

PROMETEO

(Cooperativa Zenith)

Prometeo is an integrated support service that offers a highly personalized experience to its recipients:

- Self-sufficient / temporarily not sufficient elderly relatives with the role of care giver;
- Over65 residents in the Circumscriptions V and VII of the City of Turin.

The value proposition arises from the idea of time as a precious resource: the life time of the elderly person, which changes with age, and the time of the caregiver, which is never enough, impact on emotional aspects such as concern, sense of inadequacy or guilt. The quality of time should not be lost in them or in the continuous search for solutions to the problems: we believe in services that understand their recipients, that are accessible and acceptable, that simplify family management, the access to territorial resources and solve problems thanks to individual and collective energies, in a constantly capacitive and generative dimension.

Successful ageing is favoured by the synergy of several factors, which we tend to through home and family planning services (Prometeo Home) and the program of recreational and cultural activities in the area (Prometeo Club).

The social impact we want to generate is related to the improvement of the quality of life of both targets, to the maintenance of autonomy and the perception of the sense of belonging to the community.

G-Local Factory

G-Local Factory is a place where professional talents are enhanced, entrepreneurial skills are implement and resources are optimized by sharing spaces, networks and skills. The target audience are the "losers" of the traditional economic cycle: subjects with a potential in terms of professionalism and micro entrepreneurship who share the difficulties of entering the market. Therefore, the main challenge is to provide tools and organizational support for strengthening the marketing positioning of a craft product and promoting it into yet unexplored commercial networks. The model is innovative and inedited in Turin, it provides a continuous interaction between profit and no profit subjects, establishing relationship amongst equals and thus creating a virtual “network company”. The project takes form in an operating unit, localized in the area between Barriera di Milano and Aurora, both characterized by a situation of suburbs depletion. However, the same areas were already object of a number of initiatives aimed at building community welfare with very encouraging results. In both these areas Liberitutti scs is present since 20 years leading several projects related to social, cultural and economic promotion of depleted communities.
